

Faly Hery Rakotomanana

Holds a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Montesquieu Bordeaux IV- FRANCE and is a Statistician-Economist Engineer, graduated from the National School of Statistics and Applied Economics (ENSEA) University of Abidjan Cote d'Ivoire. He specializes in the labor market and the informal sector . He works as Director of Statistics Household at the National Statistical Office of Madagascar (INSTAT) and other national and international organizations as a consultant. In 2013, he was responsible for the Afrobarometer survey on governance and democracy in Madagascar. Since 1995, he has been being in charge of the 1-2-3 survey on Employment and the Informal Sector, which was performed for the first time to the whole Madagascar in 2012. Concerning research and analysis, his work has focused on the labor market, the informal sector, poverty and well -being and on governance. He is the author of numerous articles on Madagascar.