

Salomé Flores Sierra Franzoni

She is the Coordinator of the Center of Excellence for statistical Government, Public Security, Victimization and Justice, a joint project of the National Institute of Statistics and Geography of Mexico and the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime.

Prior to this position she served as an advisor to the Vice President of Public Security, Justice and the Comptroller in addressing issues related to INEGI victimization surveys and statistics on public safety. Previously, she held various positions in the Ministry of Public Service.

She completed her undergraduate studies in International Relations at the Universidad de las Americas, Puebla, and has Law courses from the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México. She also has a Master of Public Administration from the University of Canberra and Graduate Diplomas on Applied Statistics and Strategic Management from the Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México.

Internationally she has been in various programs on public safety, and government corruption. Additionally, she participated in the International Leaders Visitors Program of the Department of State of the United States and has been a Chevening Fellow at the University of Bradford in the UK.